

From Where We Sit--

By ED VELARDE

Santa Ana Junior college is full of traditions.

We have our annual Fiesta, which is probably the mostly widely known. We are the only jaysee which holds Freshmen days. But the tradition which should be close to us especially at this time is the "pledgeship period" for incoming students.

For a good many years jaysee students have observed the wearing of "beanies," carrying of the frosh "bibles," and other-wise maintaining a rigid observation of the many freshmen traditions.

It is a lot of fun to participate in these typical freshmen activities. As a sophomore, it is a lot of fun to keep the "frosh" "in line." And it is even more enjoyable to look back on these activities after having gone through them.

This year, however, there seems to be a sad neglect of duty both on the part of sophomores and of freshmen. The sophs have failed to make the freshmen obey the campus traditions, and many frosh have turned their noses up at them.

With Kangaroo court only less than a week away, offending frosh will "get theirs." If the court lives up to previous ones, the traditions in the future will be maintained—through efforts of those "punished" frosh. Let's all turn out for the court, but first let's keep the freshmen in line.

An expensive orchid is due the jaysee band. Thus far, the members have turned out nicely and provided that final touch to the football games. It may not be a Sousa organization, but it's ours. A big gardenia to the executive board for providing the main hall clock.

Albrecht Named New Post Editor

Staff appointments made by Albrecht are: Marjorie Vollmer and June Holman, associate editors; Josephine Butler, art editor; and Carroll Richardson, business manager.

The first edition of the Post will be published before Christmas vacation, Albrecht said. All material must be presented to the Post staff by Nov. 11.

Journalism Society To Meet Monday

First meeting of Beta Phi Gamma honorary journalism society, has been called for next Monday by President Ed Velarde. Pledges will be discussed at the meeting to replenish membership that was cut by graduation. Journalism majors with grades above a C average will be sent invitations to join the national organization.

CONTRAST IN CIVIC PRIDE!

The board of education is asking the people of Santa Ana to vote for a $385,000 bond so the attendance at the junior college can be increased and they can add more and different courses.

It is hard to imagine how the executives, who dominate the policies of the school, can have a good, ethical and moral influence on the students when, by their own deeds, they are so unethical, so immoral, and so unbusinesslike.—SANTA ANA REGISTER, Sept. 6.

The school directors have planned wisely and well for the necessary improvements at the high school, Lincoln school, Curry school, and Roosevelt school.

These improvements must be made—and they can be made much less expensively if the school bonds are passed, so tomorrow let every citizen travel to the polls and vote "Yes" on the proposition.—VALLEJO EVENING NEWS, Sept. 28.

(Editor's note: The Vallejo school bonds passed by an overwhelming majority vote of more than 7 to 1.)

Engineers Plan Demonstration Next Week

Demonstrations of the cosmic ray, the Telsa coil, and induced currents will be highlights of the exhibition in physics to be given by the local chapter of the American Association of Engineers next Wednesday, Oct. 26 in room C8.

Performances begin in the afternoon with Bob Horseman and Warren Hall demonstrating the Telsa coil, Tompson McNeal and Kenneth Grotenhous in charge of the cosmic ray, and Neal Gammell and Keith Tantlinger working on induced currents.

The evening show will have John F. Shannon of the General Electric Vapor Lamp company of Los Angeles, as special guest who will give a lecture on vapor lamps.

Officials of the AAE extended an invitation to the public to attend the exhibitions, and announced that refreshments will be served following the evening performance.

Final Plans For Initial Alumni Homecoming Near Completion

Final plans for the first Alumni Homecoming were nearing completion today, as Alumni President Otto Grigg announced the program of entertainment activities to be featured during the visiting days, next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Oct. 27 to 29.

Highlight of the event will be next Friday's football game with San Bernardino in the Municipal bowl, followed by an Alumni-Associated student dance in the Ebell clubhouse, where old and new students may meet and enjoy themselves. A women's tea has also been planned by the women's service clubs, under the direction of the Spinsters.

Committees from the men and women's service clubs will be in charge of the festivities, and arrangement of parties, dances, and luncheons, is to be placed in their hands.

"Each member of the Alumni association has been notified of the Homecoming by mail," Mr. Grigg stated, "and we cordially invite them to attend. The majority of alumni returning home this year will probably come from Orange county and surrounding communities," he concluded.

Dispute Of Transfer Designs Is Settled

Controversy over the proposed new college decalcomania transfers was settled today when Associated Student President Bill Twist announced that the stickers are merely supplementary to the old ones, rather than a replacement of them.

Deadline for new designs is Oct. 28, when they will be judged by Miss Frances Egge, head of the art department; Carroll Richardson, editor of Del Ano; and Josephine Butler, Del Ano art editor. A prize of $3 is offered for the best design.

Leads Named For Musical Comedy

Leads for "Trial by Jury" a musical comedy and takeoff on the English courts, were announced today by Miss Myrtle A. Martin, music instructor. Bruce Buell and Margaret Elsner are cast in the main parts.

Wilbur Kamrath and Vernon Worden have been chosen to fill other important roles, it was stated.

The women's treble cleff will act as the bridesmaids in the courtroom scene, and the men's octet will be the jury.

Local Radio Station Features Athletes

Prominent Santa Ana junior college athletes are being featured each Monday morning over KVOE in a special college broadcast from 7 to 7:45 a.m.

Lynn Arnett and Larry Timken have been interviewed in previous broadcasts. In addition a daily program featuring general jaysee news is presented. Students are urged to listen to the program which has attracted wide attention throughout the county.

Following an announcement that JC grid scores would be broadcast each Friday night, more than 50 telephone calls were received by KVOE, according to Jack O'Mara of the local station.

Ten Books Added To Penny Fair Library

Ten new books have been added to the Penny Fair library since the beginning of the semester. Librarian Lillian Lickson stated today. The library, which now contains 45 of the best sellers, was started two years ago by Los Gauchos, men's service club, from money raised at the annual Penny Fair.

New Campus Vote Decision Monday

Definite assurance was given here today by school authorities that a decision on the question of a second college bond vote will be reached Monday evening when the board of education meets to consider the proposal.

If the board decides against a second election, other plans must be made soon to correct the overcrowded conditions here, it was indicated. A total of 937 students are now attending classes compared to 814 at this time last year with others enrolling daily. The influx has created a serious housing problem, administrators point out.

According to G. W. Bassett, who directed the first jaysee bond campaign, the Monday decision by the board will settle the issue as to whether or not Santa Ana voters will be asked to ballot again on the new campus proposition.

ASK FEDERAL AID

Efforts are being made at the present time to secure some definite indication from government leaders as to the possibility of securing additional federal aid for the building fund. The previous request for $315,000 expired Oct. 1 after local voters had defeated the bonds by a small margin.

Final decision on the election is necessary, Mr. Bassett said, as more than 1200 Santa Ana citizens have signed cards and petitions asking for a second vote on the campus question.

Del Ano Cameramen Appointed Today

Appointment of Bob Notley and Joe Thompson to the positions of staff photographer and assistant photographer was announced today by Donn Hart, financial manager of Del Ano, college yearbook. Notley and Thompson will specialize in informal campus shots.

"Simplicity will be stressed," Carroll Richardson, editor of Del Ano, state in referring to the appearance of the book. As soon as the dummy is made, the commercial art class will begin the art work.

Dec. 3 Is Date Set For First Debate

Santa Ana's debate squad which consists of Ernest Barrett, Isamu Masuda, Gilman Brookings, Edward Budd, James Tranter, and Frank Washburn, is preparing for the first conference encounter of the season, scheduled for Dec. 3.

Their first conference debate is at San Bernardino, when the question, "Resolved: That the United States should cease to use public funds (including credit) for the purpose of stimulating business" will be the topic under discussion.

Flashlight Section Performs Tonight

Nearly 100 students will take part in the second stunt of the flashlight section this year which will take place between halves of the Don-Pomona game tonight, Dick Wright, publicity chairman of the committee, said today.

The Buccaneers' service club will be in charge of the flashlight section in the future, Wright added.

In charge of the group now are Donn Hart, flashlight committee chairman; Don Rader and Les Myers, co-directors; Merle Swingle and the Piloteers' service club, slides and reflectors; and Dick Wright, publicity.

Offending freshmen will meet justice Wednesday morning when "Chief Justice" Twist's court convenes for the annual Kangaroo court at Willard auditorium, Roy Potter, chairman of the session, announced today.

All freshmen are required to attend the session which will start at 10 a. m. It will last for two hours. This will be the longest session in the history of the college, Potter said.

BUELL ATTORNEY

Prosecuting attorney will be Bruce Buell. Each defendant will be given the opportunity to defend himself, it was announced.

Any sophomore may bring charges against a freshman if he turns the charges in before the court to Buell or Bill Druitt, Potter stated.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Weather Bureau Resumes Operations

Jaysee's weather bureau, conducted by physics students, will resume operation soon, H. O. Russell, adviser, stated today. Weather forecasts will be broadcast every morning except Sunday over KV OE, Mr. Russell said.

The bureau, which is located on top of the board of education building, has been operating steadily for more than two years.

The bureau was originally organized as part of a meteorology course, but is now conducted as an extra-curricular activity.

No Tuition Charge, Leaders Agree

Stressing the fact that the attendance of out-of-state students should be encouraged by all California junior colleges in the interest of community expansion, members of the Southern California Junior College association had gone on record today against tuition charges for such students.

In discussing the question of tuition at their annual fall meeting held at Fullerton jaysee last Saturday, the Southland administrators agreed that the presence of out-of-state students was not a financial burden on the community.

HEADS LIGHT GROUP

DONN HART, chairman of the flashlight section, has completed plans for tonight's appearance of the group. Approximately 100 students will participate.

Any student who is interested in either social or international problems or political issues has been invited by Mr. Knutsen to attend the meeting Monday and to join the society. PERSONAL COSTUMING

IS SANTA ANA 'DIRTY'?

This question was raised by representatives of other Eastern Conference colleges, and the general consensus of opinion indicated that the Dons played questionable football against Citrus.

There are two sides to that estimation, although the papers reported that the locals were given a deserved 129 yards worth of penalties. They ranged from a slugging penalty to a loss incurred by an illegal shift.

We offer in proof for the Dons' clean playing, the fact that NEVER before has anyone accused any Bill Cook team of playing "dirty." And it is an accepted fact on the squad that anyone who does is benched by the head coach. Cook is a sportsman, and his teams are representative of his principles.

We might reveal to officials of the Eastern Division that the slugging penalty occurred when a Citrus man jammed his fingers into the eyes of Ted De Velbiss once too often. It also looked odd that an official should help a dazed Don to his feet, after an obvious clipping by an Owl, and then fail to reel off fifteen yards against Citrus. This was seen by at least ten persons who were rooters for CITRUS.

If members of the conference still call a Cook-coached team deliberately "dirty," then it can be said that the conference itself is dotted with dyed-in-the-wool blacksheep.

MEANTIME, the scramble for the pennant is in a hodge-podge of upsets and dark horses who also ran. The annual Thanksgiving mixer with Fullerton promises to be the game of the year. The hornets have kept under cover so far, but their victory over Riverside showed much. Watch out for them on Toikey day!

Riverside's Bengals have been named twice this year, and they may meet another match for their 100-pound average line in the San Berdoo scalpers. And don't look low, but between us Dons, the cookmen are going to have to use their big guns to bag the Chaffey Panther this year. Don't let their 26-0 defeat at Sun Valley Idaho fool you!

According to the grapevine, an outside organization is going to furnish the thirsty gridders with much needed water wagon. It seems that the local rooters who now so MUCH enthusiasm at the games could have put it over themselves.

And whenever you hear some standstall quarterback barking at some erring player's family tree, just remember that such sidiron gossips are merely people who have an overdeveloped sense of RUMOR.

Dons, Cossacks Meet Here Tonite

Entering their sixth game of the season with but one defeat, the local eleven will meet the Pomona Red Raiders in the Municipal bowl tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Though Pomona has not won a game this year, they have an unusually strong team although only 28 men are out for football.

LOST BY BREAKS

The last two games Pomona has played have been heart-breakers. They ran up a first quarter lead of 13 points against Fullerton only to drop their conference opener 13-19 because of poor strategy. Last week Pomona was "cheated," so they claim, out of a 0-0 score with San Bernardino.

TOUCHDOWN RULED

In the last quarter, with only nine minutes of play remaining, Finney of the Indians passed to Thompson who caught the ball in the end zone, fumbled it momentarily, and then fell to the ground with the ball underneath him. The pass was at first ruled incomplete but the referee over-ruled the umpire and gave San Bernardino a touchdown.

Bud Gray, captain of the Cossacks, formerly a second string All-Southern Cal quarterback in high school, is the spark plug of the Pomona team. On the kickoff of the Fullerton game he ran the ball back 85 yards and brought it within easy scoring distance. His fast, elusive, running aided by a light but shifty backfield and a line averaging 190 pounds may trouble the locals.

DON BACKS OUT

It is doubtful whether two regular Santa Ana men—Lynn Arnett and Larry Monroy—will be able to start tonight. Arnett still has trouble with both ankles and Monroy was injured in last week's game with Citrus.

Four Cookmen In Scoring Race

Breaking into the conference scoring race last week as a result of the 25-0 win over Citrus, four Dons are afforded the chance to tack on a few more digits to their standings in their second conference tilt with Pomona tonight.

At the expense of the Owls, Ted DeVelbiss, Larry Timken, Art Heinisch, and Vern Rutledge are tied with others for third spot.

Individual scoring:

	T.	C.	TP
Ray Winnen, Fullerton	2	0	12
Ralph Pickett, Fullerton	1	1	7
Ted DeVelbiss, S. A.	1	0	6
Larry Timken, Santa Ana	1	0	6
Art Heinisch, Santa Ana	1	0	6
Vern Rutledge, S. A.	1	0	6
Bruce Drummond, Pom.	1	0	6
"Bud" Gray, Pomona	1	0	6
Mark Fisher, Riverside	1	0	6
Ray Bandel, Fullerton	1	0	6
Don Fisher, S. Berdoo	1	0	6
Don Trust, S. Berdoo	1	0	6
Paul Holmes, S. Berdoo	1	0	6
Ernie McNulty, S. B.	1	0	6
Johnny Thompson, S. B.	1	0	6

Self Defense Main Factor Of Old Grid Technique

"Fight 'em team, fight 'em" is probably the orthodox persuasion of today, but if ancient football history is to be believed, it was formerly "everyman for himself."

Unlike many popular sports, football history is shrouded with vagueness, and although it undoubtedly came from England, up to the present time no one has been able to determine the year it originated. That it is over two centuries old is beyond question, for history brings us the tale of Henry VIII who attempted to kick a football, lost his balance and fell heavily to the ground. He was immediately congratulated upon missing the ball, since it would have suffered untold damage had his powerful leg connected with the unfortunate pigskin.

EARLY FOOTBALL

First comment by the literary world upon the game was in 1801 when Joseph Strull declared that "of late years it has fallen into disrepute." At that time the game was defined as an "effort to drive a bladder through the goal of the antagonist," and it was added that "sometimes players kick each other in the shins without the slightest remorse."

The shape of the ball at this time was round, and eventually the game turned into what is now known as soccer.

INTRODUCE RUGBY

Rugby, another game commonly known as football showed itself in 1860, and boasted that its strong point was a minor riot known as "scrummage." This was the play during which all the participants collided in a heap, with the ball lost somewhere in the center. Frequently the ball rolled outside the confusion but kicking and gouging continued in complete disregard for both the ball and any ethics that might be attached to the game.

One of the most popular features of rugby was called "hacking over", which consisted of a deliberate effort to cripple the opposition by brute force.

STREAMLINE PORKHIDE

The shape of the ball gradually assumed that of the present football, and order developed out of chaos by a code of rules.

In 1869, Princeton and Rutgers colleges played the first American inter-collegiate football game in history, Rutgers winning 6 to 4. The game vaguely resembled today's set-up, but was for the most part a mixture of soccer, rugby, and some queer ideas of the United States.

Change followed change after this, and by the 20th century football was shaping into the popular sport that today ranks number one.

San Berdoo Invades Bowl Next Friday

San Bernardino's powerful Indians, today leading the conference with two wins, are the next opponents to battle the Dons. Next Friday night the Indians invade the Municipal bowl with two objects in mind: first, to continue their march towards conference title; the second, to settle the "rubber game" of last year's two ties.

On the outcome of the melee hinges the possible championship, as both the Dons and Indians are strong contenders for the title they shared jointly last year. Two struggles that ended in a 7-7 deadlock at Berdoo, and the season's finale at the bowl which ended in a 6-6 tie, furnish the background for what promises to be the battle of the season.

Timken Winner Of Popularity Award

Co-captain Larry Timken was chosen the Don of the week by a big majority it was announced today by Vanderma's clothing store, sponsors of the weekly contest.

Timken is a graduate of Orange Union High school where he made all-county fullback rating and was student body president in his senior year.

Santa Ana Blanks Citrus Owls 25-0

Featuring long penalties and long runs by Timken and Rutledge, the Dons blanked the Citrus Owls 25-0 at Azusa Friday night.

Muffing three chances to score in the first quarter, the Dons scored on Borden's pass to DeVelbiss in the second period of play. Timken was responsible for the second touchdown following his 72 yard gallop to Citrus' 17. The conversion was run over by Saunders.

The third score was made by Heinisch in the fourth, and was followed by Rutledge's 47 yard run to a touchdown.

They're At It Again

They're at it again. The politicians we mean. This week saw a nation-wide radio talk by ex-President Herbert Hoover in which he, as leader of the Republican party, blasted the New Deal. As titular head of the "outs," he sent a verbal barrage of all the old political bromides he could think of.

Branding the New Deal congress as "rubber stamps" (that's an old one, too) the ex-chief executive proceeded to tell his Republican followers what was wrong with his political opponents.

"The New Deal and its yes-yes men in congress have been experimenting with the American way of life for six years at dreadful cost in human misery and despair."

The Hoover regime, like many before it, was content to sit back and do nothing about the "human misery and despair." Not until the current progressive administration came into power, did anything approximating an attempt to alleviate this human suffering come into being.

"Congressmen represent the 48 states and not the President. They should not be chosen by the President. They should not be run by him either."

Yes, the congressmen do represent the 48 states and not the President. They are not chosen by the President either. And they don't have to be run by him if they have the backbone to stand on their own.

"We are a sadly disunited people. And no greater warning was ever given to America than a house divided against itself cannot stand."

Now, Mr. Hoover, is that nice? This country isn't that bad off, is it? From the way most of the "outs" talk, one would think this nation really was going to the dogs.

The former President's tirade against the present administration is but an example of what we would say, a "typical political stump speech." It appeals to an already determined opinion.

It takes constructive criticism to really accomplish something in the way of social and economic reform. It takes clear, concise analysis of the questions at hand. It takes an unbiased understanding of these problems.

That's where we, the future citizens, come in.

In college we are learning to think independently and to analyze from all sides the social and economic problems which confront us. We are becoming better equipped to meet this hard crusted world. It is up to us to make the best of our education so we will be more open minded, tolerant, and capable of presenting our ideas.

Full Stomachs: Democracy

Headlines indicate that what was once enviable Czechoslovakia is forsaking her former "friends" and is now casting appealing glances toward the exponents of authoritarianism. Democracy has evidently flown out the Czech window, and while former-President Benes is receiving offers of professorships in America, one-eyed Premier Syrový is assuming the role of dictator. Apparently an honest enemy is preferable to an untrustworthy ally.

The Czech's move toward dictatorship can be attributed to something more than a reaction against the treatment they received from the democracies, however. A glance into the histories of Italy and Germany reveals that Fascism and Nazism were born of economic chaos and nurtured on nationalistic hysteria. Recent events in Europe have provided Czechoslovakia with both economic instability and pathological nationalism.

During the few years of her existence, democratic Czechoslovakia made magnificent advances in industry, and was rapidly becoming a power in international trade. As a result of the "sacrifices" made by the democratic countries, Czechoslovakia's industry will be depleted and her foreign trade will be limited. The consequence of these limitations on Czech industry and trade will be that the "full dinner pail" will become a mythological, unknown quantity in Czechoslovakia.

Because full stomachs are essential to democracy, the Czechs are giving it up as impossible.—USC Daily Trojan

The Netherlands queen, in 1921, drew up a document in which she declared that she would never allow her people to war on any other country. The toad had apparently tried to eat the bills which it found on the ground.

Capistrano Birds Again In Limelight

FAMED SWALLOWS GO SUNDAY

Will the swallows leave on time?

Each year on Oct. 23, this question is pondered regarding the departure of the famed Mission San Juan Capistrano swallows, who fly to the south in the fall and return in the spring—always on the same schedule.

The swallows were brought into the limelight several years ago when observers at the famed Mission noticed the regularity of arrival and departure of the birds.

BROADCAST NATIONALLY
As years rolled by, the strange phenomenon attracted the attention of an increasingly large audience throughout the United States. Radio broadcasts have been made the past two years by Clinton "Buddy" Twist over a national hook-up to inform the nation of the actions of the swallows.

Twist will again be at the microphone this year in the historic old landmark, along with the Rev. Father Hutchinson, Mission priest, Ramon Yorba, an old-time resident of the district, and other Mission characters.

TWO BROADCASTS

Two programs will be presented in the broadcasts, one to be given at 9:45 a. m. Saturday and the other scheduled for 10 a. m. Sunday.—RUTH LIGGETT

Bilboard Curse Told Scenery Blocked

Although advertising brings results, I pity the man who drives; When he is out to see the country,

But on billboards has to thrive.

California's scenic wonders attract many an out of state driver, but what a disappointment is in store when he must view the billboards instead of our scenery.

Who thought of all these buxom "ads" to mar the beauty of California's rare sights? Surely he obtains oodles of money from his undecorative idea; but who wants to see a picture of the "Ritz hotel" at every curve when he comes to see the beautiful beaches of Southern California?

BILLBOARD BLOCKS VIEW

Chicken pie and punch make an edible combination, but a bottle of punch and California geysers do not mix. If you can climb over that billboard and strain your eyes over the R.P.M. advertisement, you may be able to get a glimpse of the geysers. But is it worth it? You can read about it in a book and probably will be better impressed than by trying to locate the actual panorama.

This is the largest redwood tree in California, but it looks as though the main feature is: "Lulu's Place, 50 yards—hamburgers, cigarettes and soda."

When tired of hearing people advertise their goods, take a ride in the country, turn on the radio and get a double dose "Meet Me at the Manx" runs through your head until scenery is second-most in your mind. It is impossible to see the valley at a distance anyhow, so one may as well learn about the scenic attractions by reading the billboards.

El Don Mail Box

SANTA ANA, Oct. 19 — (To the Editor of El Don):

On viewing our campus today it is to be noted that the sophomores must surely be losing their power. As a whole, the grounds have been kept fairly clean so far this year. It may interest some sophs to know, if there are strong-hearted ones left, that a certain group of frosh make it a habit to eat their lunch on the sophs' lawn and the way that they litter it afterwards is simply sinful. If the weak minded frosh have not learned by this time how to keep their campus clean the upperclassmen should make it their job to teach them. Maybe some of the students do not realize what an asset a clean and beautiful campus is to this college and that certain individuals are continuously trying to find fault with SAJC. So come on you mighty sophs lets show these freshies some manners; make them keep the campus clean.—JAMES PIAS

you; why travel many miles to see Monterey missions when you can drive a few miles in your own home town and learn about them from the billboards?—DOROTHY ADAMS

Recall Catastrophe "Frisco Hit In '68

San Francisco's hardest earthquake was not in 1906.

Very little can be found recording its hardest one, though there were 140,000 people in the city at the time, because, except for a momentary terror, the earthquake meant little to a San Franciscan.

Seventy years ago today it happened. The clocks were ticking toward 8 o'clock. People were hurrying to work. Children were going to school. Then at 7:55 a. m. the earth suddenly awoke from its stiff slumber, stretched, yawned thunderously, and went back to sleep.

EVERYTHING CHAOS

F. D. B. Stillman, writing in the Overland Monthly for November 1868, said that he saw "... the towering walls reeling as if about to bury its entire population; helpless infancy, decrepit age, frantic mothers, all flying they know not where, and blocking up the streets through which frightened horses were trampling their way."

The earthquake was fatal to the five people who happened to be standing under torrents of falling bricks.

Only a few buildings went through the earthquake without being severely affected. Those few were built on solid rock.

MUD FOUNDATIONS

The buildings in the mercantile district were the masterpieces of their age. They rested on specially made foundations composed of the purest mud and perishable refuse obtainable.

And so when the earthquake had passed, one didn't have to climb stairs to reach the second story of a building. If the building were still there he merely had to step from the street through the second story window.—MORRIS COHEN
